

What's new this spring?

Workshops yield positive changes:

Platte County workshop attendees felt the information they learned from HYCS spring workshop will help them change their lawn care practices to protect watersheds. One participant thought the information should be shared with homeowner's associations and neighbors.

A group in Rolla began a stenciling program with the local Venture Crew. The Venture Crew is a co-ed group of youth ages 14-20 who volunteer in their community. Volunteers stenciled the phrase "Dump No Waste, Drains to Streams" next to storm drains throughout Rolla neighborhoods. They are hopeful this stenciled reminder will help protect local rivers and streams. This project was co-sponsored by the Missouri Stream Team, the City of Rolla Public Works Department, and Healthy Yards for Clear Streams.

Rolla volunteers also hosted a booth at the Missouri University of Science and Technology's Earth Day celebration on April 22. They had a rain barrel on display along with a macro-invertebrate collection from the local Stream Team. This was a huge hit with the kids.
